POETRY.

Bryant's "Crowded Street." How fast the flitting figures come !

The mild, the fierce, the stony face, Some bright with thoughtless smiles, and some Where secret tears have left their trace.

Youth, with pale brow and slender frame, And dreams of greatness in thine eye, Goest thou to build an early name? Or early in thy task to die?

Keen son of trade, with eager brow, Who is now fluttering in thy snare? Thy golden fortunes-tower they now? Or melt the glittering shapes to air?

Who of this crowd to-night shall tread The dance till daylight gleam again? Who sorrow o'er the untimely dead? Who writhe in throes of mortal pain?

Some, famine-struck, shall think how long The cold, dark hours-how slow the light And some who flaunt amid the throng, Shall hide in dens of shame to-night.

And some who walk in calmness here, Shall shudder as they reach the door, Where one who made their dwelling dear, Its light, its life, is seen no more."
